“The National Eye Institute in 2022: Where We Are, Where We’re Heading”

The National Eye Institute (NEI) is among the world leaders in directing and funding vision research. NEI has recently released a new mission statement and strategic plan, which outlines priorities for the next five years. This talk will describe these priorities, which fall in seven cross-cutting areas of emphasis: genetics, neuroscience, immunology, regenerative medicine, data science, quality of life, and population health & disparities.
