The Developmental Behavioral Pediatrics Division at UC Davis Children’s Hospital collaborates with families and children to help improve quality of life and community inclusion. Our multidisciplinary team of physicians, psychologists, and social workers provide diagnostic and on-going care for infants and children with neurodevelopmental disorders or who are at-risk for developmental delays. Together, we partner with you to give your child a happy and healthy start.

Regional centers

If you have concerns regarding your child’s development, you can have your little one evaluated for early intervention services by your local regional center.

Regional centers collaborate with the California Department of Developmental Services to provide services and resources that support children and families with developmental needs. Centers offer counseling, diagnosis, and family support to help children lead healthier lives.
