Health Science Communication Fellowship

This opportunity is open to doctoral graduate students and post-doctoral scholars conducting scientific research.

Gain valuable professional development skills and experience in science communication.

Participating fellows will commit to the following:

- Attend three professional development workshops (lunch and snacks provided).
- Independently develop a hands-on activity related to your current research.
- Present a communication prototype to the general public at the annual Meet-A-Scientist weekend. Each scientist will be asked to participate on either December 7 or 8, from 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

After completion of the fellowship, scholars are expected to have the skills necessary to create presentations that effectively communicate research concepts and findings to the general public.

To apply and read more information about the fellowship visit: health.ucdavis.edu/ctsc/area/engagement/sciComFellowship.html

FALL 2019

Develop a fun, hands-on, activity relevant to your research

Workshops are held from noon to 4 p.m. at the Powerhouse Science Center in Sacramento

Workshop Dates
- Wednesday, Oct. 16
- Wednesday, Oct. 30
- Wednesday, Nov. 20

Questions?
Contact Fatima Malik
ftmalik@ucdavis.edu
(916) 703-9138

Space is limited.
Applications are due by Wednesday, October 2.

In Partnership With

UC Davis Health
Center for Reducing Health Disparities
Powerhouse Science Center