The Department of Otolaryngology – Head and Neck Surgery at the University of California, Davis is pleased to invite fourth year medical students from groups underrepresented in medicine who are planning careers in otolaryngology to participate in a 4-week acting internship rotation.

Participating Medical Students will receive:
- Up to $3,500 reimbursement for travel/housing
- Faculty and resident mentorship by experts in otolaryngology sub-specialties including facial plastics, head and neck oncology, laryngology, otology, pediatrics and rhinology
- Opportunities to interact with residents and faculty in the Department and UC Davis Health

Eligible Medical Students must:
- Be in good academic standing at an LCME accredited medical school
- Self-identify as belonging to a racial/ethnic minority group traditionally underrepresented in otolaryngology (as defined by the AAMC)
- Have an anticipated medical school graduation date of Spring 2020

To apply, submit the following in one PDF document:
1. Current Curriculum Vitae (CV)
2. Current photo
3. Personal statement (no more than 800 words)
4. Letter of recommendation from a faculty member

Applying students must submit a formal visiting clerkship application of VSAS, with all institutional requirements met.

Submit applications via email to lyeeisbell@ucdavis.edu

For more information, please contact Lisa Yee-Isbell