Families, educators, health professionals, and community members are invited to attend a series of presentations about neurodevelopmental disorders provided by the Center for Excellence in Developmental Disabilities (CEDD) at the UC Davis MIND Institute.

November 6, 2019, 5:30-7:00pm
Anxiety and Autism
Anxiety impacts many youth with autism, yet it often goes unrecognized and untreated. Psychologists currently researching and treating anxiety in youth with autism will discuss the unusual ways that anxiety may show up in this group, and share strategies that reduce anxiety while promoting bravery and independence in children and adolescents.
• Breanna Winder-Patel, Ph.D. • Megan Tudor, Ph.D.
• Allison Nahmias, Ph.D. • Marjorie Solomon, Ph.D., MBA

January 15, 2020, 5:30-7:00pm
GI Treatment Approaches in Autism
Learn about gastrointestinal (stomach) symptoms in children with autism spectrum disorders (ASD). Developmental Behavioral Pediatricians will talk about research behind traditional, complementary and alternative treatments commonly used by families of children with ASD and discuss ideas for supporting children with these issues.
• Kathleen Angkustsiri, M.D. • Bibiana Restrepo, M.D.

April 4, 2020, 10:30-12:30pm
MIND Institute Open House
Please join us to learn about the MIND Institute’s latest research and community resources! Enjoy presentations by MIND Institute researchers from 10:30-11:30 am, and then go behind the scenes with self-guided tours showcasing our Resource Center and Research Clinic. You will have the opportunity to meet our clinicians and researchers and participate in our research studies. Fun activities for children will be provided.
