Join together with gerontological researchers, advocates and funding agency representatives to refine research priorities and develop an action plan that will improve access and reduce barriers to optimal caregiving.

The workshop includes a review of outcomes from the institute's March 2018 Research Priorities in Caregiving Summit, a panel discussion highlighting challenges and methodological issues faced in family caregiving research and discussion on growing capacity in caregiving research through the support of new scientists and partnership building.

Program contributors include

- Kathleen Buckwalter, PhD, RN, FAAN
- Karen Lyons, PhD, FGSA
- Kaci Fairchild, PhD, ABPP
- Susan Reinhard, PhD, RN, FAAN
- Karen Schumacher, PhD, RN
- Robyn I. Stone, Dr.P.H.

Register for the workshop through the GSA 2018 Annual Scientific Meeting website at <https://www.geron.org>
