

Choose world-class care for your family

Your child's health is precious. That's why it's important to choose a doctor who will listen to their needs and partner with you, so your little one can grow up happy and healthy.

There are UC Davis Health pediatricians and family medicine doctors available right here in your community. To find a doctor today, visit our Find a Doctor tool at physicians.ucdavis.edu or contact our Consumer Resource Center at 800-2-UCDAVIS (800-282-3284).

What to consider when choosing a doctor

When looking for a pediatrician or family medicine physician, keep in mind the following questions so you can find a doctor fit for your growing family.

Who is your health insurance carrier?

---

Will your baby's insurance be the same as yours?

Yes  No

Do you have other children?

Yes  No

If yes, who is their doctor?

---

Will this doctor also see your new baby?

Yes  No

If no, do you have a primary care doctor who specializes in pediatrics?

Yes  No

What is the difference between a pediatrician and a family medicine physician?

UC Davis Health pediatricians and family medicine physicians both provide great care, but their roles are different in many ways. A pediatrician cares for infants, children, teenagers and young adults until the patient is 18 years old. A family medicine physician provides care to the entire family, and your child/children can receive care from them through infancy to adulthood.

Have questions about choosing a doctor? We can help!

At UC Davis Health, we recommend that you select a pediatrician or family medicine physician prior to being 28 weeks pregnant. If you need help, please call our Consumer Resource Center at 800-2-UCDAVIS (800-282-3284).

You can also contact your insurance carrier or view our accepted health plans at choosehealth.ucdavis.edu to ensure you are selecting a pediatrician or family medicine physician that is within your network.
