What is a teaching hospital?

A teaching hospital or academic medical center is a hospital that is associated with a major medical school such as UC Davis. Teaching hospitals train medical students, nursing students, residents and others to become skilled medical professionals.

When you come to UC Davis Orthopaedics for an appointment, you may be examined initially by a resident. After the examination, the resident will present the clinical data to the attending physician, who will then examine you and review the studies available. Your care will always be anchored by one of our many experienced, board-certified physicians.
